

"Yes, our new wagon's a Studebaker — the only kind we KNOW"

"The Studebaker idea has been in our family for sixty years. We have never thought of buying any other kind of a wagon."

"It's true, we're continually being offered other wagons costing a little less, with lots of promises as to what they will do. But we know in our family what a Studebaker will do. A few dollars difference in price doesn't mean much. It's the service a wagon gives that we consider most."

"Long service for a fair price means more every time than short service for a few dollars less."

"That's why we stick to Studebaker—and 'Stick to Studebaker' is a pretty good motto for a man who uses wagons."

"Studebaker wagons are built of good stuff. They're made right by people who've had years and years of experience in making them right—people who are trusted the world over."

"Studebaker wagons last, because they're made to last."

"Look out for the dealer who tells you his wagon is just as good as a Studebaker. That's my advice after a good deal of experience—and the experience of all my people. You get a Studebaker and you've got a safe investment."

There is only one way to get all the news of the Grove country. That is in The Sentinel.

Within a 15 mile circle around IMPERIAL there are now several hundred prosperous farmers raising enormous crops of wheat, rye, barley, oats, potatoes, vegetables, etc. Poultry raising is also highly successful.

Three large stock ranches, owning several thousand horses and cattle are also in this circle.

IMPERIAL is now the trading point and will soon be the shipping point (the railroads are now building) for the products from thousands of acres surrounding it.

$1,000 ON THE FARM

Answers to a City Man's Query: "Can I Go to a Farm With Small Capital and Make Good?"

J. M. OSKISON in Collier's

Montana is calling for the right sort of city man with a small capital, says a man in Missoula. He tells of one farm company which owns 30,000 acres, and this company is looking for those with small capital to develop it. On this particular tract no cash rent is demanded, and work at good wages is offered for those who want to use their spare time in earning extra money.

In Montana, according to the figures of the man in Missoula, the $1,000 of the city refugee should be distributed in this way:

After renting 80 or 160 acres, on a third-of-the-crops-to-the-owner basis, buy as follows:

3 good milk cows, at $60 each... $180
2 good brood sows, at $25 each... 50
3 dozen chickens, at $9 a dozen... 27
Two good horses... 300
Wagon, second-hand... 50
Harness, second-hand... 25
Plow, $20; harrow, $16; small tools, $20... 56
Household furnishings and supplies 250

Total... $938

For his immediate needs, the tenant, if he follows this schedule of expenditures, will have in cash $62; if there is unbroken land on the rented place, he can get $3 an acre for turning over the sod; and he and his team ought to find time to earn $3.50 a day for at least sixty days in the year. His investments ought to yield these amounts:

Butter fat from the cows, $25 a month... $300

Eggs and chickens, $7.50 a month... 90

Hogs, two litters from each sow—

20 a year—at $20 each when 1 year old... 400

Total... $790

"The farmer should grow all of his own vegetables," the man in Missoula says, "and from those he has to sell he should derive an income of $100 a year."

"He should be able to cultivate thirty acres of land without assistance, choosing among wheat, oats, barley, flax, hay and potatoes. From that acreage, after he has turned over to the owner a third for rent, he should have at least $200 worth of grain for sale."

"Now, what is the total of the year's income? From the live stock, $790; from labor of the man and his team, $200; from the garden, $100; and from that portion of the crop sold, $200—it foots up to $1,290. Out of this, the family ought to be able to live very well, and save at least $300 the first year. The earning power of the man and his equipment will increase from year to year, as well as the sum which may be saved toward the purchase of the right kind of a farm."

In the West.

Throughout Montana, Idaho and Washington, reports the man in Missoula, exceptional opportunities exist for the man with a small capital and a determination to go to the farm and make a success of it. They exist because most chambers of commerce and most real estate dealers in that region are absorbed in the attempt to secure settlers with a good deal of money who can develop the country rapidly.

The little chances are overlooked, and the man with $1,000 won't have to pay inflated prices for his modest patch of ground.

Now comes a word of caution from Texas—a lawyer of Stephenville who has "sold farms to some hundreds of people, built some hundreds of houses, and improved many farms."

In Texas, he says, the man with a capital of $1,000 and a family will need to move cautiously, and to spend some time in learning exactly what kind of farming he is best fitted for, and where he can get the best farm bargain. The fact that Texas is being boomed systematically will increase the tenderfoot's obligation to look out for the sharps and keep a tight grip on his money until he learns farm values.

"The idea that anybody can farm is as absurd as to suppose that anybody can practice law or medicine without training," observes the Texas lawyer. "Successful farming requires intelligence and the application of accurate knowledge of business."

"But even if he is not really successful, the city-bred man will find that the farm is the best place to be poor—he has only to remember that without knowledge and the application of business principles to farming he will be poor."

A Farm in Georgia.

There is a farm in Georgia, two miles from a railroad station and twenty miles from a town of 15,000, which is described as suitable for the man with a capital of $1,000—it is told about in a letter from one who was raised on a farm, taught school, became county superintendent of schools, and is now a lawyer.

The farm is one of thirty acres, unfenced, and it can be bought for $150. The buyer's remaining $850 should be extended in this way:

Lumber, for putting up the shells of house and stable... $150

Fencing, $75; wagon, plows, and tools, $75... 150
Stock: mule $100, cow $40, brood sow, $15; 15 chickens, $7.50 162.50
Cutting 25 acres of land with a heavy disc harrow... 50
Groceries, feed for stock, seed, pump, and incidentals... 337.50

This farm, the Georgia man writes, can supply all the posts needed for fencing, wood for fuel, and other incidental uses. The twenty-five acres he puts into crops, which he can tend without help, should yield this return:

15 acres of corn, pinders (peanuts), and peas... $350

8 acres of sea island cotton, 3,000 lbs... 160

Half an acre of cane sugar, for sirup... 150

Half an acre of sweet potatoes, 150 bushels... 75

Seven-eighths of an acre of rye, millet and chicken corn... 20

An eighth of an acre of vegetables 25

Total income... $780

Deduct: fertilizer, $80; and taxes, $15... 95

Here is a net return of $685, figuring that the farmer will sell everything he raises. As a matter of fact, he will keep for his own use and for feeding his stock half of the sweet potatoes, two-thirds of his corn, pinders and peas and what he raises in the garden. This will cut his net cash return down to $370 and, out of that about all he would need to supply for the following year would be necessary clothes, rice, flour, coffee and sugar. At the end of the year he will have a farm which he can sell for $800 if he wants to.

"Rough clothes," states the Georgia man, "few dollars of cash and fare which is based on two staples, bread and potatoes—these are the portions of many of the farming folks I know, and the man must be prepared to accept them all for the time it takes him to rise above the level of the incompetent."

"Are these things understood, and is the wife willing to go and take the children? If Mr. Cityman can answer yes to this question, I would advise him to go when he has capital of $1,000."

TAKE STOCK OF PROGRESS

Leaders in All Lines of Industry Will Gather at University Commonwealth Day.

To take stock of the last year's progress of the state of Oregon, to point out where the state is achieving success and where its efforts need strengthening, are among the purposes of the annual Commonwealth Day which will be held at the University of Oregon May 16 and 17.

"We don't know where we are going, but 'we're on the way' is the spirit of the commonwealth conferences were designed to change into a spirit of self-confident progress, sure of what it wants the state of Oregon to become, and sure of the means of working toward it."

On these days leaders in all lines of Oregon life will gather in Eugene. Questions of economic progress, cooperative production and distribution and legislative, administrative and educational efficiency will be discussed by experts in the different subjects.

Officeholders, labor leaders, social workers, grange masters, scientists, students, editors and business men will each contribute their quota to the study of the problem of making Oregon a richer and better state.

The more strictly economic and sociological conferences will occupy all day Friday and Saturday morning. Saturday afternoon will see one of the most significant meetings of Oregon women ever held addressed by leading women from all over the state. At the same time there will be a cheap rate excursion which is expected to bring 500 engineers and others from Portland, and a meeting of the editors of Oregon newspapers, who will discuss the place of the press in the community. After this will be an out-of-doors presentation of scenes from Peer Gynt and Midsummer Night's Dream and folk dances by students and the Junior League of Portland.

Robbers Carry Safe to Alley and Blow It.

Safe robbers, possessing apparently a fondness for bizarre and unusual methods, broke into the Springfield Wine company's establishment early Friday morning, tumbled the safe out into the back alley, loaded it coolly with nitro-glycerine and blew it. Incidentally they rifled the cash register in the wine company's office, securing altogether about $70. Then they drew their revolvers, fired a half dozen shots in the air and departed. All this was done while several people were hurrying around seeking the police.

ELECTRIC SURVEYORS GO TO POWER SITE

Purpose Is to Make Surveys for Development of Water Power on McKenzie.

Four civil engineers in the employ of the Oregon Electric Railway left Eugene last week for the railway company's water power site on the headwaters of the McKenzie River. The site is located some distance above Belknap Springs, and the engineers will either ride horseback or walk there from McKenzie Bridge, the present terminus of the stage line.

The trip of these engineers at this time is good indication that the railway company intends to immediately develop the power upon which it has filed. The engineers had little to say while in Eugene, but it is presumed that they go to make surveys preparatory to the beginning of actual construction operations in the near future.

These engineers are under G. S. Edmunston, hydraulic engineer, who has made several trips to the site since the Hill interests obtained control of it a year ago.

It will be remembered that the Hill people filed on this site in the name of the McKenzie Irrigation and Power company. The irrigation part of the enterprise has already been started and it is a large area of farming land just above Springfield.

The Southern Pacific Company also has a splendid power site on the headwaters of the McKenzie River, not far from that of the Hill people, and the fact that this company last fall surveyed a line of railway from the National extension above Springfield to a point 30 miles up the river, indicates that it is the intention to utilize this power in the not distant future. It is known that the Hill interests have had surveys in the valley, and it may be that a fight and a race like that in the Deschutes canyon several years ago will be waged between the two rival corporations.—Guard.

Industrial Exhibits at Fairs

EUGENE REGISTER

Too much stress cannot be placed upon the importance of the industrial exhibits that are being prepared by the school children of Oregon for the state fair and the various county and district fairs—particularly those exhibits that relate to agricultural industry. The eyes of all true Oregonians are turned to the future. We are all expecting great development and a great advance in the state's material prosperity. The children of today will be the men of tomorrow, and upon their shoulders will rest the task of realizing the state's greatest opportunities.

Agriculture is Oregon's greatest industry now, and its importance will increase as the years go by. Lumber and mining are great resources, but in time they must dwindle, as they have dwindled elsewhere. Agriculture will increase from year to year, every acre that the timberman cuts over increasing the opportunities for the farmer.

The preparation of agricultural exhibits to be shown at the fairs stimulates the interest of the children in farming, and their interest, once it is aroused will hold. Farming is no longer a humdrum pursuit. It offers opportunities that are just as great as in any other line of business, and the application of scientific methods lends a new fascination to it.

If the children of Lane county will make the effort, they can carry away the first prize at the state fair this fall. They have the greatest agricultural county in the state—thus having an advantage from the very start. Enterprise and well directed industry will win, and the knowledge they will gain will be worth the effort. The honor they will bring to their county will be clear "profit."

One and one-third fares for the round trip are offered by the railroads to those who attend the Conference on the Conservation of Human Life at Reed College, Portland, May 9-11. Tickets will be good for return up to May 13.
