CAMAS TEAM IS DEFEATED

Camas Team Held Until Almost Last Inning When Scores are Made.

ST. HELENS HERESUNDAY

Exceptional Work of Local Players Highly Commanded; Field Sup. Was Exceptional; Score was 4 to 2.

R. H. E.
Vernonia..... 000 020 101—4 8 2
Camas..... 000 000 002—2 6 2

Summary.

Errors, Kotula, Hudson, Hughes and Tidland, stolen bases, Davis; sacrifice Welch, Austin and Hudson; three base hits, Robins; hits off Damar, 2 off Manning; struck out by Daman 4, by Manning 6, walked 1; hit by ball Wright.

Manning put a bomb shell under Camas Sunday, when they completely shut them out until the final frame, when they managed to get two scores. Chief had that rock's by slow ball of his cutting all kinds of capers. It went down to the plate just as if it had all summer for the journey. It seemed as if it would hang in the air a few feet in front of the batter, shimmy for awhile, and then dive into Hudson's mitt, leaving the batter standing with his mouth open wondering what it was all about.

Manning and Daman hooked up in a first-class pitchers' duel. Daman was the first to fall when the Ducks broke through in the fifth inning with two runs. Manning never gave away but was right until the last two hits in succession spoiled his chance for a shut out.

Manning was given brilliant support by Welch and Wright, these two worked like big leaguers all through the game. There were no loose spots to be found anywhere in the Ducks' line-up. Everyone of them played a first-class game from start to finish. Merritt, our right fielder was not in the line-up Sunday, on account of blood poisoning in his hand. This we are sorry to state and only hope Merritt will be with us Sunday. Smith, who substituted for Merritt, played a wonderful game. Tommy Dowd failed to appear at Camas, so Davis was sent into center field, he just Ty Cobbed all over that garden.

All right boys, next Sunday is the day we meet our old enemies right here at home, so do as good as you did at Camas and St. Helens will go home budly beaten. Nuff said we know you will.

Entertained at Farewell Party.

Miss Lora Smith was guest of honor at a lovely party given at the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Cole, Friday evening, July 30, when Miss Louise Summons and Ruth Holday entertained forty young people. The evening was spent in jolly entertainment, after which refreshments were served. Each guest was given a favor as a remembrance of the occasion. Miss Smith's favor turned out to be a lovely traveling bag, presented as a token of love and friendship by those present.

Miss Gale Hunter of Tualatin, California, is visiting with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Knight. She intends staying several months.

George McGee was the lowest bidder, securing the contract on the Cleveland road or the opening of north Rose avenue.

DELEGATES LEAVE FOR CONVENTION

American Legion Members Vacate Vernonia for Marshfield.

Vernonia is very much depopulated this week by the absence of a number of its legion members who are enjoying the state convention held at Marshfield. Vernonia won the two biggest trophies offered in the state legion circles winning the Dr. Stewart trophy and the Graham Glass district committee of district No. 1. From all reports this will be the biggest and best convention the legion has ever held in Oregon and the Vernonia delegation is very much pleased over winning the trophies. Among those who are in Marshfield are Mesdames and Messrs. Wm. Folger, A. L. Kullander, Jack Carkin, Dr. Hurley, Mr. Murphy, Guy Shields, Dudley Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Fenner, A. W. Alexander.

OVERLOOKING THE HORSE

One could feel but pity for the come from them. As an example, we blind man in the picture who won't have the merchant who excepts business when he says "Giddap." He knows he is sitting in the wagon with reins in hand and that he is going; through all the usual performances of a driver. But he finds no results because the horse—the pulling power—is not attached.

This man has a reasonable excuse, for he cannot see. But there are many men with the power of physical sight who are in the hopeless predicament of the blind driver because they fail to see important things but look for the results that

SOME BOOZE HOUND

Informant States How Many Gallons Goes Down Every 30 Days.

Some enterprizing citizen of Vernonia gave an interview to the St. Helens Sentinel, in which is intimated that Vernonia is the worst town in the country for moonshine. The informant even states just how many gallons of liquor goes down the "red lane" every 30 days. It isn't a bootlegger ad at that, but more of a knock-down boost to the fair name of Vernonia. If the "loud speaker" knows all that he gives out, why don't he prove himself a good law-enforcing American citizen and give his vast store of knowledge to the proper authorities. Why don't he stop it if he is so sure of the evidence? Just such doings is one thing the matter with Vernonia. In truth, Vernonia is no wetter than other towns of the same population and very good for an industrial center as it is.

County Superintendent O. A. Anderson of St. Helens spent several days in Vernonia last week making arrangements for a house during the approaching school term. Mr. Anderson has resigned from his present position to accept an offer from the Vernonia school board to serve as principal of the schools here this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller of Scappoose were in Vernonia Tuesday, taking in the carnival and for a short visit with Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Dixon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Burraw and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sesseman visited at the Dent home Sunday.

Mrs. Mabel Dent returned Thursday from a visit with relatives in St. Helens and Rainier.

Mrs. Handley is moving the Model Millinery shop one door east of the present location.

J. M. Clark has moved his real estate office one door east, west of the bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Greener of Mountaintop, were guests at the Herman Greener home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Johnston and children and Phil Miller and family spent the weekend at Canon Beach.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Love is very ill.

PIONEER PAYS VISITS

First Visit Made in 24 Years to Visit Old Haunts.

A. E. Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas, daughter and daughter-in-law, were in Vernonia Tuesday for the first time in 24 years, reviewing the old home sights. Mr. Thomas located in the valley in 1888 and settled two miles south of Mist where he was connected with Mr. Smith in the lumber business, where they conducted a pioneer saw mill and were pioneer mill men of the valley, shipping most all the lumber into Clatskanie. Mr. Thomas cut at one time what was reported to be the most perfect cedar tree in the state from his property there and after being sawed and stacked and measured it had over 6000 feet of clear cedar lumber, and as yet no one has reported a more perfect tree. The tree was 6 feet one way and eight feet the other at the base of the stump, and had a ten inch rotten center, the tree was 44 inches through a 10 foot point of the log. The Thomas have been touring the country for the past six years and have spent considerable time residing in different provinces of Canada. Mr. Thomas is now retired and making his home in Junction City. From here they left for Mist and other sections of the lower county and will spend some time there renewing acquaintances of by-gone days.

KEEP PLUGGIN' ALONG SEQUOIA OAKLEAF SAY

Sequoia Oakleaf says, "No matter how green you are, there's always somebody greener; no matter how sad you are, there's always somebody sadder; no matter how smart you are, there's always somebody smarter; no matter how ugly you are, there's always somebody uglier; no matter how 'slick' you are, there's always somebody that can 'go you one better. There isn't much in trying to excel in anything these days—what's the use? But no matter how discouraged you are, there's always somebody that's ten times as stock and store, it cannot travel alone, event down hill."

LOCAL CITIZEN PASSES

Friends and Acquaintances Were Shocked to Hear News.

The death of Mr. W. T. Hatton last Monday afternoon was reported by his many acquaintances and friends, who were shocked and surprised at the sad news. Mr. Hatton was a long time citizen of Vernonia, being here years before the railroad came. He owned a blacksmith shop in the town for several years and was known all over the valley for his good work and responsibility. Mr. Hatton was a hard-working and honest citizen. For the past few months he has been ailing and some time ago was obliged to quit work. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias.

The funeral services were conducted Wednesday under auspices of Harding Lodge, Knights of Pythias. A large attendance at the last rites and ceremonies. Mr. Hatton was a good friend and with sadness we are compelled to chronicle his death.

Emil Messing was a Portland visitor Wednesday.

The Willing Workers and friends of the Christian church will meet with Mrs. Hawkins on Bridge St., near the Gilby garage on August 11, at 2 p.m. for a social afternoon. Everybody is invited.

Will the people who purchased articles at the carnival Tuesday night, kindly return the pans and plates to Mrs. Aspland, Pythian Sisters.

Mr. Reithner spent a few days in Portland and Seaside last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Morgan and C. R. Adams of Shiels, Washington county, visited with Mrs. Morgan's aunt, Mrs. H. L. Green, Sunday.

L. C. Boeck and family motored to Bunkerhill and visited over the weekend with Mr. Boeck's aunt, Mrs. Hummel.

FAREWELL PARTY IS BIG SUCCESS

Mrs. D. L. Smith Is Honored at Bridge Party.

One of the most delightful social events of the season took place Thursday afternoon, July 29, when Mesdames M. Grunden, Henry Bergman, Dave Marshall and Fred Whalater were hostesses at the home of the latter for a bridge party in honor of Mrs. D. L. Smith. Mrs. Smith left August 5 with Mr. Smith and their daughter, Lora, for Winslow, Arizona, where they will make their new home.

Five tables of bridge were played until four o'clock when several other guests arrived. Delightful refreshments were served after which the honor guest was presented with a carpet bag, filled with gifts from those present. This was a "sunshine bag," whose contents are to be opened, one each day after Mrs. Smith has reached her destination.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the hostesses were: Mesdames D. L. Smith, A. J. Black, M. J. Armstrong, Reithner, Frank Hanson, Frank Shinin, Carl Davidson, C. Anderson, J. L. Will, Frank Godwin, John Kemp, W. J. Gooding, E. W. Wolff, M. D. Cole, J. E. Cropper, Judd Greenman, Ira Mann, Wm. Folger, Chris Nicer, J. C. Lindley, and R. A. Space all of Vernonia, Mrs. M. Grady and Mrs. Eric Hopkins of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Switzer of Longview, Wash.

Milton A. Fuegy, of Astoria, S. P. & S. official, called last press day and expressed disappointment over the fact that he hasn't hearing more about a Vernonia day celebration. He said if it could be pulled the railroad would assist in every way possible, even to a special train if business demanded.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Knight and children returned Thursday from a two weeks' visit in central and northern California, coming back by Yosemite and Redwood national parks.

G. C. Olson of Corvallis, with his sister-in-law, Mrs. O. A. Christopher and son Paul, of Nampa, Idaho, visited over Sunday with Mr. Olson's sons and daughter in Vernonia.

Maurice Richardson, who has been employed on The Eagle for two years, will remain on the job under the new ownership.

FOUR CANDLES TODAY

Time waits for no man; it doesn't seem possible that four years have gone by. No railroad, no mill, no pavement, no lights, no sewers, no walks, no water, no fire-proof buildings, no fire department, no park, scarcely anything in Vernonia four years ago. Four years ago today The Vernonia Eagle was established and since then the paper has witnessed the above improvements, and many more in Vernonia. Vernonia has grown in those four years from 200 to over 2000. Yes, this is our birthday and we are not complaining over the accomplishments, the success or the prestige the paper has brought to this beautiful city of the Nehalem. We have witnessed hundreds of buildings go up, new schools and churches and have become acquainted with some mighty good people as well as a few rascals.

The paper has done much for Vernonia, has put the town on the map, so to speak, and our conscious is not bothering us one bit. We rest serenely in the pleasant thought (perhaps selfish), that we have given as much as we have received.

The readers of the paper have increased at the rate of several hundred each year, until today The Eagle is proud of its subscription list and proud of the city we call home.

We are now entering our fifth year and closing Volume Four. And we predict greater things for Vernonia during the next four years.

WHO IS THE NEW MAN?

Vernonia can consider itself fortunate in securing as new citizens this week, Mr. and Mrs. Mark E. Moe. The Vernonia Eagle has been sold to Mr. Moe, who takes charge immediately. Mr. Moe's father is owner of the Hood River Glacier where Mark E. was employed previous to coming to Vernonia. Both Mr. and Mrs. Moe are graduates from O. A. C., and both musicians and vocalists. They are delighted with Vernonia. Mr. Moe was overseas during the late war, going over with the first shipment in the aviation, and he was the last to return to the good old U. S. A., serving with the army of occupation after the Armistice. He belongs to the Masonic and other orders and as a young newspaper man and editor ranks with the good ones of the state. We wish and know that Vernonia will welcome them and encourage them. We hope the business firms will fill their paper with live ads and that all citizens will assist them in getting acquainted by bringing in all news items they may know.

The present owner of The Eagle feels glad to have the good fortune to furnish so good a man for the home paper. In purchasing the business Mr. Moe assumes complete charge, pays all bills from August First and is responsible for The Eagle from now on. He will give you a better paper and will merit your cooperation. Mr. Robinson has left no announcement as to his immediate intentions, but will soon visit southern Oregon where he expects to locate. There are many in Vernonia to whom we dislike to say "good by" as we have many close friends, but we feel that the side will be good for the town as well as for the new editor and his good wife.

PAUL ROBINSON.

TOLD ABOUT CRIME

Col. Lewis of Oklahoma City says the crime wave today is the result of Soviet Russia.

There were 50,000 killed in our late war, but since the war, there have been four times as many killed. There have been 450,000 killed by auto, said Col. Lewis. There were 28,000 killed during 1925 by auto. There were 810,000 wounded, all caused by violation of some law.

There were 2,558 burglaries in New York City in 1925. And only 4 per cent were convicted. England in 1925 had 113 and convicted 92. Col. Lewis said there are more than one million people in the U. S. engaged in organized crime.

There have been 58,000 autos stolen in the United States. And the United States has eight-ninths of all autos in the world.

There were 993 Oklahoma boys killed in the late war. Since the war, there have been 1,420 homicides in Oklahoma.

There are today 200,000 prisoners in the United States. And it costs the people of the U. S. seven billion dollars to maintain the prisons, pay lawyers, etc.

In 1925 there were 925 murders in Chicago. Lack of law enforcement encourages crime in our country, he said.

In England they enforce the law to the letter, and the result is that twelve of the largest prisons in England have been abolished, on account of lack of inmates. England convicts more than 90 per cent of those arrested. Col. Lewis said there is now an organized attempt to overthrow the U. S. Flag.

Crime is getting stronger in our land, he said, and a great deal of it is caused by indifferent parents, who do not subdue their children when young. Also blood and thunder movie shows should be abolished, he said.

A MAN'S PRAYER

Teach me that sixty minutes make one hour, sixteen ounces make one pound, and 100 cents one dollar. Help me to so live that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience, without a gun under my pillow and unhaunted by the faces of those to whom I have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and that in earning it I may do unto the others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money and the rustle of unholy skirts. Blind me to the faults of all others, but reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife I have nothing to conceal.

Keep me young enough to laugh with little children, and sympathetic enough to be considerate of my age and when the day comes of darkened shades and the smell of flowers, the tread of soft footsteps and the crunching of wheels in the yard, make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple.—"Here Lies a Man." —Anon.

PIERCE MEN TRAVEL AT STATE'S EXPENSE

NOT LIKED BY TAXPAYERS

Nearly All of Statehouse Crowd
Discover They Are Needed at Distant Gatherings.

MOVIE NEWS AND COMMENT OF LOCAL FEATURES

BY JOHN W. KELLY.
So little confidence have members of Governor Pierce's official family that he will be re-elected that they apparently have decided to have a good time in the short tenure of office remaining, or make their peace with the republicans, in view of I. L. Patterson's practically certain election as chief executive.

Operating, it would seem, on the policy of "in short life and a merry one," various officials are indulging themselves with transcontinental trips at the expense of the taxpayers and with the approval of the governor. In all instances, of course, these junketings have the color of official business, and national conventions have proved an excuse for them. It was not so long ago that Governor Pierce expressed his disapproval of officials running around over the country at state expense, but conditions have changed. As practically all of the Pierce appointees will be affected by an incoming republican administration, "the boys" who cannot expect re-election are shooting around the nation, traveling first class. It won't last long, and it may be they won't be good while it does last.

Governor Sets Example.

Of course, members of the official family have an excellent example in their chief, for Governor Pierce has been absent from his office more than any other governor. His appearances at the statehouse are like angels' visits; few and far between. He has hurried hither and yon, speaking at lodge meetings, at churches and the like, and for these excursions he files an expense account, contending that they are performed on state business.

July Fourth the governor was at Tacoma. He is now en route to Wyoming, to attend the conference of governors at Cheyenne.

R. R. Turner, recently appointed state superintendent of public instruction, left within a week after his appointment for Philadelphia, where he attended the National Educational Association convention. He has returned, but is now in southern Oregon. While absent he visited his old home in Virginia. Turner was the democratic nominee for state superintendent, and the governor turned the office over to him when J. H. Churchill resigned.

Secretary Visits Capital.

W. A. Dulzett, private secretary to the governor, has been on a trip to Philadelphia and Washington. At the sesquicentennial celebration he represented the state. The homeward trip was punctuated by stops to visit relatives in Oklahoma and other states.

W. A. Dulzett, deputy sealer of weights and measures under C. E. Spence, state market agent returned recently from Washington where he attended a meeting of sealer and weights officials. Mr. Dulzett, like Mr. Spence, his superior officer, is an ardent supporter of Governor Pierce.

Will Moore, state insurance commissioner, also made the grand eastern tour a few weeks ago to discuss insurance matters.

Will A. Mullen, deputy real estate commissioner under Will Moore left Tuesday for New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, New Orleans and Los Angeles. His mission is, ostensibly, to gather data for attending Oregon's real estate code at the 1927 session of the legislature.

Elkins Takes Trip East.

Dillard A. Elkins, industrial accident commissioner, is in the east at present attending a compensation convention at Washington, D. C. Mr. Elkins will meet his wife, now visiting relatives in Philadelphia, and they will return to Salem together.

W. A. Marshall, also an industrial accident commissioner, is on his way back to Oregon from attending the same convention as his colleague, Commissioner Elkins.

Other democratic officials are browsing around on shorter junkets within the state.

Costs of these journeys is being defrayed out of the pockets of the taxpayers. The wanderlust has become epidemic among the Pierce cohorts. Gossip says that some of those making these junkets are keeping an eye open for new connections while away from Oregon.

Officials of lesser prominence, but whose tenure of office is dependent on the favor of the administration, are throwing out feelers to see if they can hold their jobs if they desert Governor Pierce and support Mr. Patterson, republican nominee for governor.

To sum up, the Pierce machine is shot to pieces and the governor realizes that his proteges are not putting their hearts into his campaign—Oregonian.

MOVIE NEWS AND COMMENT OF LOCAL FEATURES

Who is it that don't appreciate a good laugh. Mr. Bush says he has many big laughs and screams in store for all this Saturday night. The big box of fun opens at 7:15 Saturday night when Buster Keaton turns loose in the picture "Go West." The greatest train robbery, the eat-and-stamped, the wide open spaces where cows are cows—they're all here—everyone of them—with Buster, the tenderest tenderfoot you ever saw, and his fascinating cow, Brown Eyes, in the most hilarious comedy ever made. See it!

For the coming Sunday night will be "Reckless Romance." Love, thrills loads of laughter. The New York stage success, "What's Your Wife trying?" "Christie Bized" into five reels of pure fun. With a big comedy cast including T. Roy Barnes, Wanda Hawley, Harry Myers, Tully Marshall, Sylvia Breamer and Jack Duffy.

Next Monday night is Buck Jones in "A Man Four Square," which deals with a westerner who goes to Chicago for a whirl at life. But after experience synthetic gaiety and artificial friends, he realizes that his heart is really in the West where his true friends are. He returns to the West just in time to help a friend who is in trouble and also breaks up a gang of cattle rustlers who are operating in the country. He makes a spectacular rescue of the girl with whom he later falls in love. This picture gives Jones an opportunity to show the West as it really is.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday nights the big picture "Brayhearts! An Indian!" Was his humor worth a single thought? Yet he nobly sacrificed it to save the girl he loved from a bitter shame and humiliation. A photoplay of wigwam and camp life that will linger long in the memory—a big dramatic theme developed with masterly skill—a love story of tremendous force—a screen presentation of primitive passion vibrant with thrills.

For next Thursday and Friday nights you can see Jackie Coogan in "Old Clothes." The kid himself! He's Jackie Coogan, who rose from rags to riches, back again with the sidewalk of New York as his only home, a fire plug as a headrest and the curb to park his feet. But watch him step—big shoes and all! You'll laugh as never before at the uproarious adventures of the most lovable waif in pictures. Wait till you see him as best man at the funniest wedding that ever happened. Here's the great successor to "The Rag Man."

THE EXPENSIVE SPENCE

State Market Agent Spence is positively negative, according to the Eugene Daily Guard. Editor Kelly declares one of the reasons why Governor Pierce ought to be defeated next November is elimination of Spence and his unsound policies from Oregon official life. The Eugene newspaper expects that as a natural result of a change of administration.

Instead of aiding farmers to find profitable markets for their products and to secure sound marketing methods in an orderly and business-like manner, the state market inspector devotes his time and energy to maintaining his political following, and advancing propaganda for unsound and theoretical measures of legislation.

Instead of devising workable plans for selling farm products by which profits would result, Mr. Spence would have producers believe that it does not pay to grow fruits and vegetables. The town consumer will hardly agree with this contention.

Quoting from the latest bulletin issued by Mr. Spence, the Guard prints this paragraph:

"During the month of May there were 106 fewer carloads of fruit and vegetables unloaded in Portland than for the same month of last year, and this in the face of a remarkable growing season and an early spring this year. State Market Agent Spence attributes this reduction largely to the fact that growers get so small profit returns from fruits and mixed vegetables that it does not pay them for the work involved."

If growers are getting insufficient returns, why does not Mr. Spence, in his capacity as market agent, try to evolve some system of curing the ills of which he complains, discouraging and creating discontent among the farmers who are taxed to support the administration of his expensive official activities? Such leadership can only deflect farm support and diminish the following. Mr. Spence works so studiously to main-

This is an era of cooperative marketing; its failures merely show what to do, and experience is turning experiment into applied science of orderly and systematic selling.

To witness state market office in a bulletin printed at state expense, exhorting growers of fruit and vegetables not to grow such crops, and announcing that it does not pay for their work, is confession of inability in a job that would be better filled by a man of more ability than is apparent in the incumbent.—Morning Enterprise.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

Mrs. Norris joined as she greeted Aunt Emmy and exclaimed, "Now I know all my financial worries are over! I wanted to tell you right away—"

"What have you bought this time?" Aunt Emmy demanded suspiciously. "Well, I haven't paid this money over yet, but I have found the lovely investment where my money will be perfectly safe and will earn a nice income for me right away." Mrs. Norris said, "I'm going to buy bonds, good safe bonds, that will pay me fifteen per cent interest."

"Wait a minute, you'll have to go some, Maud Norris, to tell me about good safe bonds that pay fifteen per cent!" Aunt Emmy broke in.

"They are safe,—the man said so and this booklet says so too!"

"Do you know what a bond is?" asked Aunt Emmy.

"No, but it's awfully safe. I'm sure of that," Mrs. Norris said. Every body knows that bonds are safe."

"My dear, some bonds are safe and some are not. When you buy a bond you simply lend your money to the company putting out the bonds. Bond issues are secured generally by the company mortgaging or pledging some of its property. In other words, it offers a certain asset as security that it will return your money to you on the date the bond matures. It agrees to pay you a certain sum each year for the use of your money, usually something between five and eight per cent. No company can afford to pay too much for its money, and as to fifteen per cent bonds why it would be very unusual for a company to be able to earn enough to enable it to pay fifteen per cent for the privilege of using other people's money, moreover, if it is good enough to borrow money at all it can borrow it more cheaply than that!"

"Oh, dear!" said Mrs. Norris, "then a bond isn't a good safe invest-

"Don't jump at conclusions so fast!" said Aunt Emmy. "I did not say that. A bond is as safe as a church if the company that issues it is financially sound, has a high credit rating and a mailing history. Before you buy bonds, inquire as to if the company behind them is above reproach."

"But the man who told me about these fifteen per cent bonds was so earnest—I felt sure I could believe him."

"I then over any money to him until you have some advice on the bonds from your bank," admonished Aunt Emmy. "Then, if you find out that the bond is questionable you will escape with a bad investment."

THERE IS NO SATURATION POINT FOR HONEST VALUE

Build a product that the world needs, better than the world expects, and mounting sales will answer those who are constantly predicting a saturated market.

During the first six months of this year, for instance, Dodge Brothers sold 207,115 motor cars and trucks. This represents a gain of 49.3 per cent over the first six months of 1925, and continues Dodge Brothers in the enviable position of THIRD IN THE INDUSTRY.

For the three weeks ending July 17th, 23,862 motor cars and trucks were delivered to customers—an increase of 62.4 per cent over the same period last year, and impressive evidence that Dodge Brothers great sales gain is continuing through the quiet weeks of mid-summer.

There may be a saturation point for mediocrity, but honest value will always command a great and ever-expanding market.

A new industry has sprung up in

The Wool Industry in South Africa

(Letter from E. S. Berlitz, Oberlin, O. F. S., Africa)

Underwood & Underwood
Woolgathering in South Africa
Note the Overseer.

Fair of a kid. East Africa.

The Union of South Africa is rightly classed among the great wool producing countries of the world. Climatic conditions there are admirably adapted to the breeding and raising of the Merino type of sheep with a strong staple wool.

A large part of this country is suitable only for the raising of sheep, and the government is making progressive and intelligent efforts to improve both the sheep and the manner of preparing the wool for market.

Jacals being a strong menace in South Africa, long-time government loans are extended to sheep owners for the erection of fatchal-proof fencing. Government sheep experts are maintained permanently in all districts so that their services and advice may be assured at a nominal fee.

The mutton sheep of South Africa is the fat-tailed, black-headed Cape non-wool sheep. As no cross breeding for mutton lamb is done the wools are purely Merino in character.

Progress in this South African industry is particularly noticeable in the harvesting. Despite the fact that Kaffir labor can be secured at the equivalent of $3.50 American per month, there is a trend toward the modern shearing machine as against the aged hand blades, which even in America, have not been discarded by many otherwise entirely primitive wool raisers.

A study of this fact, however, readily reveals the reason for it. While there is a first cost for the machine, the unskilled black adapts himself to its use much more readily than to the hand blades, and soon does a remarkably smooth job of shearing with the machine.

Once adapted to the use of the machine, its economic value becomes striated in the materially greater number of sheep sheared, the better market value of the wool, the fewer matted sheep, and most important, the additional 5% to 12% more wool obtained with the machine over and above the amount of wool secured with the hand blades. As a consequence, the machine resolves itself into a small investment with certain big returns.

Steadily, the science of wool-marketing in South Africa is fast approaching the scientific efficiency of the Australian marketing plan, which is, without doubt, the most practical and efficient in existence today.

Considering that the four provinces, Natal, Transvaal, Orange Free State, and Cape Province, which comprise the Union of South Africa, have 20,000 square miles less of territory than Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming combined, it is surprising to note that they contain two and one half times as many sheep as our five states named.

This alone, makes that country a strong contender for future leadership in the wool industry. It is interesting to note however, that the great bulk of foreign progressiveness is due to American initiative, American implements and machinery and American ingenuity. The South African wool industry holds true to this in that American methods and American new inventions destined to take a large and important place in the economic progress of the far distant Union of South Africa.

WHY GOVERNMENT PRICE FIXING WON'T WORK

One of the most persistent fallacies is government price-fixing on competitive commodities. There is already government price-fixing in commodities and services where competition plays no part in price determination. Those are railway transportation, electricity, gas, telephones and telegraph, and so on. Here government price-fixing is solely to protect the consumer. There are two fatal objections to government price-fixing for agricultural products, which represent the most competitive business in the world. These are, first, that it will not work; second, that it is always done for the consumer as against the producer.

Government price-fixing for agricultural products would work if at the same time the government regulated wages, profits, middlemen's margins, the production of all commodities and the rationing of all consumers. In short, if the population were enlisted in one vast army, directed and rationed, price-fixing would work, but otherwise not. If the price is fixed on the wheat the farmer sells, then he cannot keep on producing wheat if wages or the cost of harvesting machinery rise, or if the cost of other material he buys rises. So the next step would be the fixation of other prices, and yet other prices.

The United States government fixed the price of wheat but once in our history, and then it was to benefit consumers, not producers. The government might, in an emergency, fix some agricultural prices for the purpose of elevating such prices. Such action would inevitably and speedily lead to outcry from city consumers and a consequent reversal of policy. Indeed, the consumers, not the producers, are most likely to demand and secure food price regulation by government authorities. The farmer, therefore, who favors any form of governmental price-fixing is working against his own interests. He is putting his head into a noose.—James E. Boyle, Professor of Rural Economics, Cornell University, in the Banker-Farmer.

Steadily, the science of wool-marketing in South Africa is fast approaching the scientific efficiency of the Australian marketing plan, which is, without doubt, the most practical and efficient in existence today. SOME THOUGHTS FOR THE GROUCH

Some immortal soul has said:

"Luxurious living enfeebles the body and dulls the brain. Character and talent develop best under pressure and in perpetual struggle with the hardships of life. Too much ease usually proves disastrous. Many a genius has been ruined by material success that came before maturity was obtained." Such truthful statements are entitled to a place upon the walls of every school house and home. Did one, found in luxurious homes over produce many great men or any at all? Did you ever hear of any person of leisure ever producing a great book? Pilots on great ships become experts only when they encounter winds and storms. When all is quiet, a child can steer the ship.

Entertaining a Guest.

How can a guest be made happy and content, is the problem of many an anxious Martha these days. The problem is to be solved by trying to put yourself in the guest's place, while you think what you would like if you were the guest. To look at it from that angle would make us change our tactics in many cases.

First and foremost the guest wants creature comforts—a convenient place to wash and sleep and take care of his body. He wants you to be interested in him and show him hospitality, but he also wants some quiet and privacy so he will not be worn out. He wants a chance to go to bed at his regular time else he will feel dull or irritable the next day. Continually running him around over the country and constant entertainment and parties will wear him out.

The guest does not want to make you a lot of bother and over strain. He wants you, not you. The greatest courtesy you can pay a guest is to treat him like one of the family. Besides this, he will probably enjoy seeing and doing a few things which are out of his regular interest at home. Show him the characteristic things which are peculiar to your locality.

To Freshen a Straw Hat

Straw hats may be washed with a soft cloth and a suds of luke warm water. Do not rub soap on the hat, and rinse off all the suds after washing. Dry the hat in the shade.

The hat should be stuffed with paper during the washing process so that it will keep its shape. When it is dry, cover it with a soft cloth and press it with a warm iron. Straw stretches easily and the iron should not be hot.

A limp hat may be stiffened by rubbing or brushing on it a solution made by dissolving two tablespoons of gum arabic in a cup of boiling water. Do not rub soap on the hat until it is cool. It will not injure straw of any color.

Peroxide may be used to clean badly discolored panama hats. To bleach a millet straw which is badly sunburned, use the juice of two lemons and a tablespoon of sulphur.

Straw hat-dye may be purchased to paint a hat. These are good for renewing a black or colored hat.

Combining Vegetables

Frequently one does not have enough of one vegetable to make a serving, or one tires of vegetables the same way and wants a variety. Combinations come to the relief of such situations. There is the easiest of grandmother's day: corn and beans cooked together. And name me a more delectable dish if you can. Peas and potatoes is a common combination. Peas and carrots is a colorful union, as is peas with beets. All of these are good.

Salads permit infinite combinations of vegetables. They are useful for left-overs, but I wonder why we do not plan for them more often. When we buy our vegetables in the stores at so much per pound or bunch, we could frequently hold back a loaf of this or a taste of that and have that most delicious salad "combination salad." It may be composed of all or any of the following: A few slices of cucumber, or radishes, chopped celery, tomato bits, slivered peppers, and always the leaf of lettuce as a base.

To keep remnants of vegetables fresh for later use, wrap them in damp cloths or damp paper and lay them in the ice box or some cool place. Do not leave them soaking in water, as that extracts the juices and makes them decay rapidly.

Picnic Accessories

"Ants in the butter; frogs in the milk, and the skeeters buzzing 'round."

This does not describe the modern picnic, in which the collapsible table plays a part. For modern picnicking the stores offer all sorts of conveniences. There is the picnic kit to pack the lunch in. It resembles a suit case when closed and a kitchen cabinet when open. There is the camp cook stove to boil the coffee in, or canned heat if you prefer. There are thermos devices, maflo, from the thermos bottle for hot or cold drinks to the thermos bucket or jug for dishes of foods. Then there are paper dishes of all varieties: the spoons so inexpensive you use them but once, and even small tin trays which fit closely together and may be carried for the lap lunch—providing you sit in a camp chair and have a lap.

We are not claiming this form of picnic, so equipped with devices of civilization, is as romantic or jolly as the old time near-to Nature affair, when you spread the table-cloth on the grass and sit sprawled on the lap of Mother Earth. It is simply more ant-less.

Committees as Labor Savers

If you are planning a picnic, a banquet or a church social, be sure to have committees among whom you may divide the work. Have one committee to bring the dishes, one to furnish the decorations, one to get up the program, one to buy and cook the food, or divide that according to your menu and one to serve it. If the "faithful few" try to do everything, you will be swamped and exhausted afterward. Division of labor is the secret of carrying out your program with ease and system.

Many people would like to serve on committees, if invited; and no ideas, two heads are better than one. The committee can contribute many ideas. But with work scattered among committees, it takes a queen bee to superintend it all and see that each committee does its stint.

Cockroaches

Cockroach powders may be bought at most drug stores, but if you prefer to "roll your own," mix equal parts of sodium fluoride and flour and sprinkle in the haunts of cockroaches. When the cockroaches eat this they will rush away and die. Cocao and borax is another anti-cockroach preparation. The cocao attracts the cockroaches and makes them eat it, and the borax kills them.

It is well to remove all food from the places where you sprinkle these powders. This drives the cockroaches to feed on the poison, and it saves the food from being contaminated.

Strict cleanliness helps in getting rid of cockroaches. A dirty dish-cloth or dish, a greasy drain pipe or sink, and a damp, dark corner or floor will draw them.

A Travel Apron

When one travels, one must always carry a toothbrush, tooth-paste, cold cream, rouge (perhaps) and face powder. These are messy articles and difficult to pack in one's grip for fear they may get out of their own proper spheres and muss up everything in the travelling bag.

Here is where the rubber apron comes in handy. Get one for a small sum at the store. Turn up the bottom and stitch several rows to form pockets to hold these various articles. You can wear this in the wash room and have your toilet articles with you and not have to lay them down in anybody's way. When you have finished using them, roll up your apron with them safely inside.

When you arrive at your destination, better unroll the apron to air and dry it lest it rot the rubber, or the contents get musty.

To Shrink Materials

Before making ginghams or cotton materials into dresses, it is well to shrink them. This may be done by laying the folded goods in warm water. Wring it carefully through the wringer, but do not twist it or hand it on the line to drip dry. Hang it by the selvage or lay the fold over the line, using plenty of clothespins so the goods will not stretch. Turn it over when partly dry, in order that it may dry evenly.

Press the goods on the wrong side when it is half dry. Very thin materials may be quickly shrunken, if rolled a few minutes in wet toweling and pressed immediately.

For Dandruff

Rub olive oil into the scalp at night, take care to protect the pillow by pinning a towel over it with safety pins. In the morning wash the hair with warm suds with a dash of some disinfectant in it which will not bleach the hair. Just a little carbolic acid in the suds, to be rinsed out in after-waters, will do. After a thorough scrubbing and washing, using the finger tips to scrub each part roughly, rinse the hair in several waters.

The first rinse waters should be very warm to remove the soap and suds, but the last should be very cold to tone the scalp. Wipe the hair with towels and the sun the hair, taking care to flip the hair about, separating the strands and giving the sunshine a chance to get at the scalp. This should make a healthy, un-dandruffy head. If it does not succeed the first time, repeat the process. You will need to do it frequently to keep the head healthy.

The odor of carbolic acid may cling to the hair for a few hours, but it will disappear shortly.

A Friend or Two

There's all of pleasure and all of peace in a friend or two; And all your troubles may find release with a friend or two. It's the grip of the clasping hand On native soil, or alien land. But the world is made do you understand, of a friend of two. —Author Unknown.

A man who was compiling a dictionary wrote to Louis Agassiz, the famous Swiss naturalist and authority on ichthyology, asking for a comment on his definition of a lobster. The description read:

A lobster is a small, red, fish that walks backward. Professor Agassiz replied: "Sir, the lobster is not small, it is not red, it is not a fish and it does not walk backward. Otherwise your description is correct."

PEDDLERS!!!

Vernonia merchants carry ample, well assorted stocks and most articles needed in the home and on the farm can be obtained from Vernonina stores at reasonable prices. Vernonina merchants are always ready with their time and money to promote any community enterprise that will make the city and country a better place to live, make a living and educate our children. Vernonina is one of the best small towns in the state.

To make it so and keep it so, its people should bend their best efforts. One of these efforts should be to discourage the peddlers who are now flooding the city and country with everything from patent collar buttons to traction engines.

None of the goods they sell are standard merchandise. But even if they were, the fact remains that the most expensive merchandise is that sold from door to door; and the cheapest and most satisfactory is that you get through regular dealers in whom you may place confidence.

The automobile has brought some things not to the advantage of the smaller towns, regardless of the benefit that have come with it. One of these things, of no benefit to any one, is the "auto hobo." Another thing equally bad is the house-to-house peddler—who usually bilks his customers as surely as he injures the home merchant.

For our own protection as well as for the best interests of all, we should frown the house-to-house peddler down.

We must admit that taxes can be lowered but a trifle if at all unless we get in more taxable wealth to share the burden of public expense in Oregon.—Silverton Tribune.
