Too many Oregonians want to be U. S. Senators.

Tia Juana, Mexico, is getting plenty of undesirable advertising. It is the most wicked spot on the American continent, and the U. S. and Mexican governments will see to it that the town is cleaned up. The city was troubled with too much greed and overdrove their liberty. A firing squad for the guilty murderers is none too severe.

It has been a mighty pleasant spring all winter. Not a flake of snow all winter. Not a day that the ice afforded pleasure for the youngster with sled. Not a real cold day all winter. And now people are planning gardens. Indeed the Nehalem valley and Vernonia have a wonderful climate.

There is going to be a loud and telling protest some day over the way state schools, colleges and universities are operated. The "telling" part will be felt when tax payers start their universal investigations; when they tire of large sums for so many new buildings and a "Dean's" salary for every pupil. When thousands upon thousands are being spent for basketball buildings, football grounds, drill rooms, mahogany-furnished parlors, hard floor reception rooms, silly uniforms, freak club houses, high priced yell leaders, athletic coaches and numerous other items that go with the modern education. And the protest will be extended to cover the "society" that goes with the colleges; the cigarette smoking, the jazz, the vulgar college magazines and the late hours. There will be an awakening some day.

Another full dray load of Montgomery Ward catalogues arrived at the local post office recently. When we think of the tremendous amount of money this firm invests in advertising, we are at a loss to find out how they make the large profits they do make. It is said that Montgomery Ward will send out fifteen million catalogues, big catalogues, this spring to say nothing of the thousands and millions of circulars and special catalogues that they send out from time to time on request. This big spring and summer catalogue is good for only six months at which time the company repeats the dose with the fall and winter catalogue. In each catalogue there is a dollars worth of paper and ink without figuring the tremendous electrotype cost and the composition cost; and the freight and postage on each catalogue is at least twenty-five cents. The investment amounts to millions of dollars annually, but notwithstanding this—or rather because of this, Montgomery Ward has built up one of the largest business institutions in the world.

JUSTICE

A WOMAN was being tried for murder in an Ohio city recently. In the middle of the trial her lawyer received word that she had a possible claim to a large estate left by a man who had just died in the far west.

He immediately indicated that, in his opinion, the trial ought to be delayed; for if the woman did prove heiress to the estate, she would have enough money to afford to put up an insanity defense, and pay alienists to come and testify for her.

It is not often that such a splendid illustration of the glaring weakness of our criminal court procedure comes to hand.

Think of it! If she should unexpectedly turn out to be rich, instead of poor, she could have the benefit of expert testimony and might escape punishment; otherwise—that is, if she stayed poor—she would have to face the ordinary processes of law and might perchance spend the rest of her life in the penitentiary.

As our courts are now conducted, the whole business of mental responsibility is in a frightful mess. A poor person does not get the same treatment in our courts that a rich person gets!

The whole theory of criminal procedure seems to be at fault. The accused person hires alienists to testify that he is insane, and the state hires other alienists to testify that he isn't; and the decision in the case is then left to the judgment of a dozen jurors, not one of whom knows a single, solitary thing about psychology or mental pathology.

Some day, perhaps, it will occur to us that it might be wiser to have expert alienists kept in the pay of the state just as legal experts—the judges—are kept in the pay of the state, so that any person accused of crime would be examined at once to see if he were of sound mind.

If the alienists find him sane—well and good, let him be tried, with nothing said at the trial about an "insanity defense." If they find he is not mentally responsible—that too, is well and good; let him be put in an institution where he can do no more harm, or placed where his mind can be brought back to normal, if possible.

Wouldn't something like that be better than the idiotic way we now pursue? Wouldn't it tend to place rich and poor on more of an equal footing? Wouldn't it keep guilty rascals from escaping punishment, and perhaps keep some poor halfwitted youngster from being hanged for doing something he couldn't help?—Astoria Budget.

Treat Them as Bootleggers

President Little of Michigan University makes the pertinent suggestion that any alumnae of that institution who brings liquor into a fraternity house should be known and treated as a bootlegger "and punished accordingly." Certainly that is the only proper label—and it should be written large—for a college graduate who deliberately tempts students to drink and to violate the law of his country. If there were a deplorable term by which to characterize these betrayers of youth it should be applied to these men, supposedly of collegiate culture, who in the words of the editor of the Grand Rapids Herald "contribute to the delinquency of undergraduates."

But of course to call a man a bootlegger is to call him by the most vile and contemptible name in the English language; it is to class him with the lowest criminals—shakers of deadly poisons, creatures who for money will sell that which they know may blind and even kill their victims, men so devoid of conscience that they will even sell the deadly beverage to children and high school youths; who have no regard for human life, when it interferes with their illicit business, traitors to their country, their fellow men, their God.

Very recently in Chicago a man brought suit for damages of $100,000 against credit report publication that had listed him as a bootlegger, and insisted to the jury that the sum was not a dollar too much for such a libelous damaging charge.

No decent man would care to live for a day under the opprobrium of being known as a bootlegger. It would bar him from respectable society. The very atmosphere of his personality would be distasteful to those with whom he did business. He would be known as an outcast, a pariah, a moral leper.

And yet these men, bootleggers, live and flourish on the patronage of people who consider themselves respectable and even social leaders. The time is not far distant, and may it come speedily, when any man or woman who so demean himself as to patronize and help support that criminal class known as bootleggers shall be regarded as one of the scum and hear the stigma that society places upon them.—Signal.

SHE HAS SPEED

"The stenographer we require," ran the ad, "must be fast, absolutely accurate, and must have human intelligence. If you are not a cracker-jack, don't bother us."

One of the answers wrote that she noted their requirements and went on: "Your advertisement appeals to me strongly—stronger than prepared mustard—as I have searched Europe, Africa, Irope and Hoboken, in quest of someone who could use my talents to advantage. When it comes to this chinmuis proposition, I have never found man, woman or dictaphone who could get first base on me, either fancy or catch-as-catch-can. I can write shorthand so fast that I have to use a specially prepared pencil with a platinum point and a water cooling attachment, a note pad made of asbestos, ruled with sulphuric acid and stitched with catgut. I run with my cutout open at all speeds, and am fast, in fact, a guaranteed, double hydraulic-welded, drop forged and oil tempered specimen of human lightning on a perfect thirty-six frame ground to one-thousandth of an inch."

If you would avail yourself of the opportunity of a lifetime, wire me, but unless you are fully prepared to pay the tariff for such services don't bother me, as I am so nervous I can't stand still long enough to have my dresses fitted.

Protecting your money

A manufacturer in an obscure little town builds a new product.

Within a year or two, thousands of women in every corner of America buy that product—and benefit by its merits.

What gives you this confidence in the value of goods made by a man perhaps thousands of miles away?

Advertising. Advertising brings you news of the new article. It tells you of its merits. It convinces you of its value. It protects your investment.

Products that are widely advertised are worthy of your faith. You buy from honest neighborly folk when you buy from their dealers.

It pays you to read the advertisements and to know advertised products. Buying them protects your money.

Every advertisement is a lesson in careful buying—read them all.

We Must Work Together

EVERY thoughtful citizen of this community is interested in its development and progress. There's no question about that! We all want our children to enjoy better homes, better schools, better parks—more agreeable surroundings and greater comforts.

We all want our town to keep step with its neighbors, to take the lead in civic affairs. So there is only one sound plan for us to follow:

We must work together to increase the wealth of this community by doing everything we can to encourage local business.

When you and your family patronize our advertisers—the stores and banks of our town—and keep your money in circulation right here at home, there is no power on earth that can prevent our progress.

Suspicious About Wall Street and How They Arise

By FRANCIS H. SISON, President
Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association

WOULD-BE economists, political orators and the general public make frequent positive assertions about the functions of Wall Street without any realization of what constitutes Wall Street without any purpose it serves.

Wall Street or what purpose it serves. Lack of knowledge breeds suspicion. Yet it is not difficult to understand the nature and function of Wall Street. Let us set down a few of the facts which account for the existence and nation-wide, as well as international, services of Wall Street.

There are 316 banks in New York with combined capital and surplus of about $1,400,000,000. Their deposits aggregate over $1,500,000,000, and during 1924 their total volume of business reached nearly $250,000,000,000. The New York Stock Exchange in 1924 sold 463,000,000 shares of stock and in 1924 $3,828,000,000 worth of bonds. Wall Street is the national credit and money market. It is just as essential that there be markets for money and for stocks, bonds, mortgages, and other securities as for cotton, corn, tobacco, wheat, hogs and other commodities.

Wall Street Were Destroyed

Wall Street is the natural evolution of the forces of trade and finance. It exists because there is imperative need for it in the nation's business if some cataclysm should destroy the financial district of New York we would see frantic efforts to re-establish it so that trade and industry could continue. If the production and marketing of agricultural and industrial commodities did not need such a financial institution, Wall Street would not exist.

We depend upon the farmer to hold the general level of prosperity. Wall Street as a money market is called upon to finance the growth and marketing of farm crops. Many Wall Street bankers were born and raised on farms. If they were not thoroughly familiar with agricultural requirements, they could not hold their present positions in the financial world.

In the period of depression, Wall Street suffered proportionately as much as the farmer. The aggregate losses of Wall Street banks mounted to a staggering sum. Wall Street is not an independent institution, but an organic part of the country's business system, necessarily reflecting the up and down of business.

Four Billion Dollars

An approximate estimate of the main items in Wall Street's financial operations in handling farm crops shows that New York banks for the purpose of agriculture put out commercial loans to the value of one billion dollars, held bankers' acceptances for another billion, buy commercial paper such as cattle and sheep loans for a third billion and carry balances of country banks for a fourth billion. Thus Wall Street furnishes a $4,000,000,000 river of credit annually to produce farm products and float them to market.

The outward flow to rural banks enables them to make the required advances on farm crops and for warehousing and handling cotton, tobacco, wheat, raisins, prunes, and countless other products. Outside of his own personal efforts on his farm, Wall Street is the biggest single factor in the prosperity of the farmer. After these commodities have been moved to market, the money used in handling them returns to Wall Street for investment. New York is the largest security market in the country and offers use and market for the idle capital of the rural banks between crops.

Funds from every part of the country flow to New York, attracted by the greater opportunity for their profitable use found in this center. Thus the accumulations of deposits are large, and in turn the openings for the useful employment of these funds to

"THEY SAY"

Almost without exception you may set it down as a positive fact that "They Say" is just a common, scandalous, malicious liar. There seems to be no time in the year when the character assassins take a vacation. They seem just exactly as the Scripture says about the poor: "For ye have the poor always with you." And the insidious manner of the extending of their vicious propaganda is also remarkable. Who is it that has not had the experience of someone rustling up to them and whispering something about "They Say"? Very often these same scandal mongers will preface their wicked and malevolent remarks by saying that "he or she is a good friend of mine, and I like them, etc.", which, of course, is a monumental lie, and then proceed to tell what "They Say" or "I have heard it said" or worse to that effect. It is admittedly true that the scandal monger who broaches the question in that respect is a common liar, because if he was your friend you know of course that he would not be carrying this gossip.

If this paper should print tenth of all that has been dumped into our hopper, with a view to persuading us against the older members of the community, we would not be on speaking terms with some of the best business people here; but we are grateful to a benign Providence that makes us believe in our is openly charged by people outside of the church that the worst goings-on, worst slanders, most irresponsible ministers of intrigue, are members of the church, sometimes leaders. This week one of the most prominent business men of the community made the remark that he believed he and his family could live a much better life outside of the church than in it, that since he had come to Canby nearly all the vicious wickedness that he had heard about was originated, manufactured and circulated upon by the church people, and usually against other members of the church.

The one saving grace of all this outraging on morals and good citizenship is that usually those who are attacked are so far superior to the attacking hounds that they rarely ever know the feeble efforts that were attempted. Of course, ignorance is perhaps the simplest explanation of it all, and with that ignorance there is coupled a large degree of deviltry that they can not control. Not being happy nor successful themselves, they seek to checkmate the prosperity and unusual happiness of their superiors. It is a strange fact of human character seemingly that all intelligent beings want you on their level; if they are good they want to lift you up, if they are bad they want to drag you down. If they are gracing their position either in the pulpit or in the pew with the Divine unction of charity for all, and if they are sympathetic with the weakness of others they try to help if they are merely taking the small fragments of a living usually meted out to poor and helpless individuals for the reason that they can not do as well or better in something else, then of course they are not inspired by the ideals of Christ nor even of good citizens.

No community can prosper with part of it arrayed against the balance. Usually the worst offenders can never be counted upon for any degree of moral or civic effort. They can usually be found in the "Knockers Club." And a part of the slimy poison of their sputum is no effort to treat the matter confidential. They will whisper to you not to breathe what they say, etc. Of course, having manufactured lies that could not be proven they would hate to be called upon to justify their statement, and almost without exception you can find by a few inquiries that the scandal mongers has manufactured the venom himself or herself as the case may be.

So the next time any of your "dear friends" come to you with any slander about anyone else, breaking their confidence with "They Say" ask them if they read the editorial in this paper which said that "They Say" was just a common liar and follow that up by asking who they meant by "They Say." Of course they will not tell you who, but if perchance they should, you go directly to the other person, and this person will promptly deny the thing emphatically. As a matter of study of human psychology try this on the next liar that tries to engage you in conversation. The result will be immensely interesting and the embarrassment will probably save you future annoyances, at least from that same individual. And in addition it will prove to you that "They Say" is just common scandalous, malicious liar.—Canby Herald.

FARM POINTERS

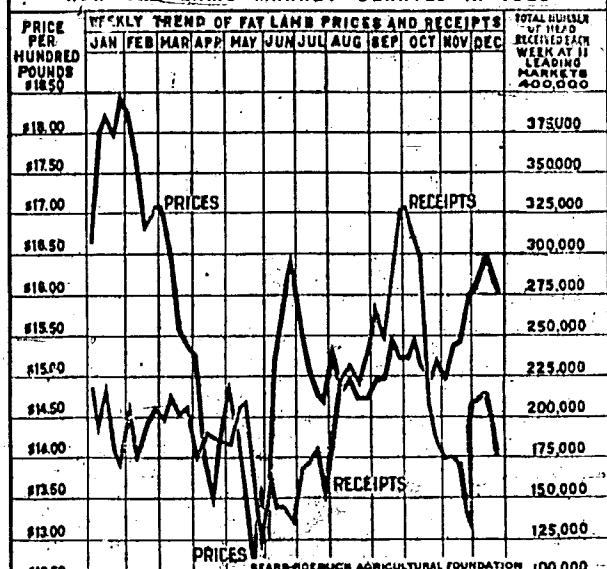

Good Seed Potatoes Pay
Good seed potatoes pay in Oregon. A few years ago the experiment station got some high-class, certified Burbank potatoes. They were excellent yielders and very free from disease. They were planted in a trial containing many diseased potatoes, and in the course of about four years have become so diseased as to be ineligible for certification. However, some roguing and selection have limited the amounts of disease so that the lot is still very much better than the average lot of Burbanks in the state. In 1926 these stands

HOW THE LAMB MARKET BEHAVED IN 1925

THE prices for lamb have been relatively high in 1925, with lamb supplies available for slaughter only slightly below normal figures, according to an analysis of the lamb market by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. In the sheep-producing states pastures and ranges have been good. Conditions in the whole area west of the Rocky mountains are vastly better than they were a year ago.

The sheep industry was much more profitable in 1925 than it was in 1924. Lamb prices in Chicago averaged $15.33 in November, 1925, as compared with an average of $10.05 for the same month in the five years from 1910 to 1915. The top price was reached in January, at $18.50 per hundredweight, and the low price of $12.50 came in May. Both prices and receipts have fluctuated up and down through the entire season, but efforts to expand production have kept market receipts down because ranchers were retaining their ewe lambs with which to replenish and increase their flocks. The number of ewes slaughtered from July to September in 1925 is the smallest for that same period during the last four years.

The number of lambs on feed both in the corn belt and in the Western feeding districts is smaller than last year and some advance in the present price of lamb seems probable from now on. There will probably be a larger lamb crop, however, this spring and a moderately lower level of prices at these lambs come to market during 1926.

potatoes were planted near a similar row of a certified lot of the same strain of potato. The control strain made a gross yield of 230 bushels an acre. The certified lot under exactly the same condition, made 325 bushels an acre, or 36 bushels an acre difference in favor of good disease-free seed.

Certified seed of practically all standard grain and potato varieties may be obtained for planting in Oregon this spring. Lots of certified seed growers may be obtained from your county agent or the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis. Certified seed comes from fields that have been inspected during the growing season for mixture, diseases, and foreign material. The seed is again inspected in the bin or laboratory. For best results plant certified seed of a standard variety.

Good stands of Grimm alfalfa, the best for Oregon has been got by the experiment station with 8 to 20 pounds an acre, depending on conditions, says the farm crop department. On a fine, firm, moist, weed-free seedbed 8 pounds are fairly good and 20 makes a thick stand. The heavier stand crowds out the weeds better, and too thin stands

This interesting question was recently unanswered through a thorough survey made by the International Typographical Union. James M. Lynch, president of this enormous plant as a growing form of waste body of workers, endeavors to show among all wage workers—The Thrift that a family man earning only $2,000 a year can save only $21.20 a year.

Mr. Lynch contends that $2,000 a year is not sufficient for the support of a family of five in decency. He blames an abuse of the "installment

It may be silly for a woman to always be powdering her nose, but that is a heap better than sticking it in other folk's business.

Minister: How tall are you, my young man?
Smart Kid: Four feet, growin' on two.

A lady in Smith's store the other day asked Albert if he thought sardines are healthy. Albert told the madam, he thought so, that he never did hear one complain.

She: I'm sorry but I can't return your ring.
He: Well then, just give me the ticket.—Pit Panther.

"Say," yelled the Chief of Police, "what do you mean by speeding along Park avenue like a mad man? You'll kill somebody. Why in blazes don't you use your noodle?"

"Noodle!" gasped the man where In the heck is the noodle? I pushed and pulled and jiggled every darn thing on the dashboard, and I could n't stop her."—Warren Club Bulletin.

Why the dickens does a man lie to his wife so he can get out and play poker, when, if he'd just tell the truth—he wouldn't loose any money.

I never saw a cock-eyed roach, I never hope to see one, But I can say that if I did I'm pretty sure I'd flee one.

Forbibly Impressed.

A church in a certain rural district was badly in need of repairs. The official board had called a meeting of the parishioners to see what could be done toward raising the necessary funds. One of the wealthiest and stillest of the adherents of that church arose and said that he would give $5, and sat down.

Just then a bit of plastering fell from the ceiling and hit him squarely upon the head. Whereupon he jumped up, looked confused and said: I—or—I meant I'll give $50." Then resumed his seat again. After a brief silence a voice was heard to say: "O Lord, hit him again!"

Carrie Lincoln, an experienced swift pace, pretty girls and known, and wonderful comedy situations. A brilliant entertainment produced by the directors of "The Humming Bird." With Warner Baxter, Esther Ralston and Kathryn Williams. A Comedy-romance with a cheerful, fluffy background and carrying a real idea and a good lesson besides. From the play that rocked New York with laughter.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday nights will be a special in "Lightnin'". A triumph in picture making. When John Golden started a new vogue for "Clem American plays," it was his intention to concentrate exclusively on the stage. However, about a year ago William Fox, the famous film producer, prevailed upon him to extend his laudable idea to the screen. Consequently, Mr. Fox will this season present seven of Golden's greatest successes to picture-goers throughout the world. The first of this notable series is "Lightnin'". It was in this great classic that the late Frank Bacon won undying fame by delighting the broadwayites of New York.

For next Thursday and Friday nights be sure and see Tom Mix in "The Everlasting Whisper." This is claimed to be one of the best Mix has ever appeared in. It carries splendid horse work, plenty of action and romance and no little amount of excitement. Vernonia fans are strong for Mix.
